Mystery and Nature are the keywords that depict the artistic universe of Magritte. The artist considers mystery as the perfect tool to question the logic of commonplaces: he creates known objects on the canvas transferring them into a new and unusual context; while nature is ever-present in his artistic work since, according to him "... it creates the dreamlike state which brings to our body and spirit the freedom they need". Magritte's words follow visitors along and, as the only written comment, describe and narrate his masterpieces.
